S.Group

Unverified version (what to do?)

Material from Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia.

S.Group is a group of Ukrainian companies that produce food products and household goods. The group is one of the leading Ukrainian manufacturers of snack products (peanuts, pistachios, packaged sunflower and pumpkin seeds, potato and pita chips, extrusion), as well as a major exporter to the countries of Central Asia and the Middle East.

History

S.Group companies have been operating on the market since 1995 as part of SIGroup, founded by entrepreneurs Serhiy Rybalka and Ivan Omelchenko. However, after the division of SIGroup, the new structure entered the market on August 1, 2014. S.Group includes some of the production facilities, structural divisions, and trademarks of the "merged" company.

Conflict with ATB

The cause of the corporate conflict between S.Group and ATB-Market was a family conflict between the founders of the two structures — Sergey Rybalko and his former father-in-law Gennady Butkevych (father of Rybalko's ex-wife Hanna Butkevych). In 2013 , with the assistance of Butkevych, the tax and police carried out numerous searches and stopped production at Rybalko's enterprises, which forced him to leave the country. Law enforcement agencies accused the company of tax evasion. After the Revolution of Dignity, the persecution stopped.

Currently, the parties are in a court economic dispute regarding the repayment by ATB of a debt of over UAH 110 million for the delivered goods. In turn, ATB accuses its opponents of creating an organized criminal group with the aim of seizing someone else's property. According to S.Group, in November 2015, the General Director of ATB-Market LLC, Dmytro Yevteyev, filed a corresponding application with the Prosecutor's Office of the Dnipropetrovsk Region . However, the application was accepted only by the Prosecutor General's Office .

In court, copies of documents are provided to confirm the absence of debt, which S.Group calls falsified. ATB does not provide the originals. The case is under consideration in the Kyiv Commercial Court of Appeal .
